♦ INTERVIEW

SUSTAINED IMPROVEMENT IS KEY FOR MALTA COACH MANGIA

Malta will be striving to build on their recent performances in their upcoming home commitments against Liechtenstein (friendly) and the UEFA Nations League Group D1 matches against Andorra and Faroe Islands. Morale is high after the win over Latvia but Devis Mangia, the Head Coach of the National Teams, is determined to keep everyone focused and fully motivated to maintain the upward trajectory. Kevin Azzopardi spoke with the Malta coach...

Malta head into their final commitments for 2020 in a positive frame of mind after going four matches unbeaten, culminating in the thrilling 1-0 victory over Latvia in Riga last month.

Devis Mangia is the mastermind behind this positive run which has been further enhanced by attack-minded and gutsy performances from the national side but the Italian coach is determined to keep everyone grounded and focused ahead of this month's triple-header. Malta kick off their commitments with a friendly match against Liechtenstein (11th November) followed by the final UEFA Nations League matches against Andorra (14th November) and Faroe Islands (17th November), all being played behind closed doors at the National Stadium.

"We have done some positive things but we need to maintain this mentality of pursuing constant improvement," Mangia said.

"If we fail to do this, we will ruin the value of what we have done so far. It's important that we don't put unnecessary pressure on this squad which has a growth path to follow."

Malta have five points from four matches in Group D1. After starting the campaign with an undeserved 3-2 defeat away to Faroe Islands, currently leading the group with 10 points, Malta drew 1-1 at home against Latvia, featured in a goalless stalemate away to Andorra last month and beat Latvia 1-0 away courtesy of Steve Borg's stoppage-time header.

Looking at the challenges awaiting Malta in the coming three games, Mangia said: "If you look at the FIFA rankings, we have just overtaken Liechtenstein (180) but the other two, Faroe Islands (107) and Andorra (145) are ahead of us.

"We must approach these games with a firm intent to put forward our playing philosophy. There will be moments during the matches when we have to defend and others when we will have control of the game."

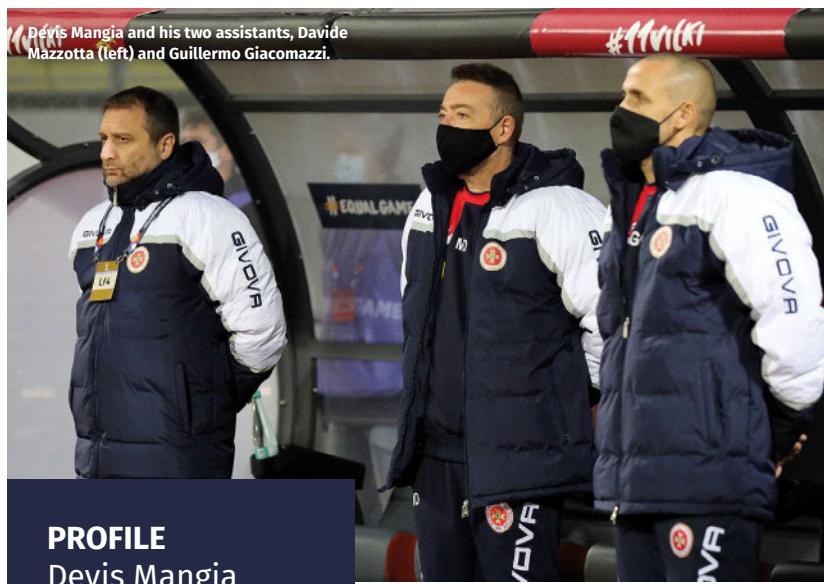

COVID-19 DIFFICULTIES

While Mangia and his coaching team have had a very positive impact on the team, their working plans and preparations have been hampered by the COVID-19 pandemic. Since Mangia took over the reins of the national team in January, the world of football, like every other sector, has been adversely hit by the coronavirus, leading to the cancellation of all national teams' commitments in March and June before international football resumed in September with several restrictions and measures.

The preparations for this month's international matches have not been without complications with Mangia himself spending time in self-isolation as he recovered from COVID-19 while a host of players who were part of recent Malta squads are unavailable.

"We are working in the best way possible," Mangia said about Malta's preparations in the current circumstances. "It is clear that this is a very complicated period and the programming aspect is problematic. We had to modify some things in our programme but in these circumstances we must adapt.

"We will have three matches in the space of a week, the same as October. The management of these matches will be very similar to last month's commitments in that we will use the first match, the friendly Liechtenstein, to evaluate players and certain aspects of our game, and based on that assessment we will decide for the following games."

Judging by Malta's lively performances in their last five outings, the players are clearly responding well to Mangia's coaching philosophy and mentality.

"The players believe in what we are doing and they want to be an integral part of this project," Mangia said. "The response has been very positive but it's clear that we have ample room for improvement and that must be our attitude going forward."

INTRODUCTION OF YOUNG PLAYERS

The introduction of more young players, the likes of Shaun Dimech, Paul Mbong, Kurt Shaw and Jean Borg together with Jan Busutil, Aidan Friggieri and Alex Satariano, who received their first senior call-up for the friendly against Liechtenstein, has rejuvenated the squad, signalling

◆ INTERVIEW WITH MALTA COACH DEVIS MANGIA

Mangia's intent to think not only about the present but also about the future.

"When I accepted this job, the objective was to work on a long-term project and not just focus on the present," Mangia said. "We want to give more opportunities to young players who show that they deserve to be part of the squad.

"This process is important to give a stimulus to the team but moreover to give these young players space to grow. Young players will have positive moments – they will also have difficult games but this is important for their development."

MIFSUD RECOGNITION

The friendly against Liechtenstein will bring the curtains down on the international career of Michael Mifsud, one of the greatest Maltese players ever.

The proposal to give the 39-year-old Mifsud, the country's most-capped player with 142 appearances to date and all-time leading scorer with 41 goals, a fitting farewell was immediately endorsed by Mangia who said: "This is something I had discussed with Michael and the plan was to do it in June but it was not possible due to COVID-19.

"When the president spoke to me about it, I absolutely supported this idea because it is the right thing to do. It is appropriate to celebrate Michael's career and recognise what he has done for this country." ◆

♦ INTERVIEW WITH MICHAEL MIFSUD

'I'VE ALWAYS BEEN PROUD AND HONOURED TO REPRESENT MY COUNTRY'

All eyes will be on Michael Mifsud this evening as Maltese football unites to celebrate the international career of one its greatest ambassadors. The long-serving Malta captain has been involved in many important matches but admitted that the friendly against Liechtenstein at the National Stadium will be an emotional occasion as it will be his last for the national team.

Interview: Kevin Azzopardi

Making his international bow at the age of 18 in a friendly tournament match against Albania in 2000, Michael Mifsud has long cemented his status as one of the country's footballing greats. This is backed by statistics as he is the country's most-capped player with over 140 appearances and all-time leading scorer with a total of 41 goals.

Today's match will evoke happy memories for Mifsud as he scored five goals, a record for a Maltese player, in a 7-1 victory over Liechtenstein in a friendly match at the National Stadium, played on March 26, 2008. It will be a fitting tribute to Mifsud who is grateful for the opportunity to lead out the national team for one last time.

"It's nice to be recognised for what I've done for the national team," Mifsud said. "I'd like to thank Malta FA President Bjorn Vassallo and the national coach (Devis Mangia) for giving me this opportunity."

In an international career spanning two decades, Mifsud has been among the main catalysts of Malta's best moments in the last 20 years. Suffice to say that Mifsud, who came through the youth ranks of Sliema Wanderers, has scored goals in every competition (EURO and World Cup qualifiers and also in the UEFA Nations League group stage) and friendlies, played under nine different national coaches to date and is ranked 61st in the list of international goal scorers.

Now 39 and still playing at the top level with Sirens FC, Mifsud found it difficult to single out the top highlight of his international career before mentioning the goal that gave Malta a 1-0 victory away to Armenia in a 2014 World Cup qualifier on June 7, 2013.

"Every game is memorable, especially when you are representing your country"

"Every game is memorable, especially when you are representing your country," Mifsud said. "The match against Armenia, when we won away, will remain etched in the history of Maltese football as we achieved a rare away victory. But every match is special."

Today's friendly will surely be special for Mifsud as it will mark the end of an extraordinary journey. He admitted to being very excited by the thought of playing his final match for Malta, a year after making his last appearance in the 2-1 home defeat to Norway in a EURO 2020 qualifier.

"It will be a memorable and special occasion," Mifsud said. "I usually manage to keep my emotions in check but I know I'm going to have butterflies in my stomach for this match with a lot of thoughts and emotions going through my head. It will cap a 20-year chapter in my life, with all the good memories and also the less positive ones... it has been an incredible experience."

It goes without saying that the occasion would have been nicer if the fans were able to attend and pay tribute to one of their all-time favourites but this is not an option due to the current COVID-19 circumstances. Nevertheless, Mifsud has been feeling the affection and gratitude of the supporters since the announcement of his tribute match.

"Football without supporters is not the same," Mifsud said. "I'd have loved to play my final match for the national team in a typical football atmosphere, with the fans supporting us from the stands, but this is not possible at present."

"That said, the Maltese have always been behind the national team and I'm sure many will be watching this game on television and supporting us from their homes."

Michael Mifsud scored five goals in Malta's 7-1 victory over Liechtenstein in 2008.

YOUNG PLAYERS

Just as Mifsud got his chance to play for the national team in his late teens, a number of young and up-and-coming players are making the grade to the senior squad, a rejuvenation process which has produced the desired rewards so far with Malta going into the final two matches of the UEFA Nations League, at home to Andorra and Faroe Islands, second in Group D1 with five points.

Players like Joseph Mbong, Matthew Guillaumier, Jurgen Degabriele and Ryan Camenzuli have been featuring regularly for the national team while coach Devis Mangia is also putting faith in younger elements, the likes of Jean Borg, Kurt Shaw, Paul Mbong and Shaun Dimech.

These players grew up looking up to the likes of Mifsud who had words of praise and encouragement for the emerging talents.

"There is potential with a good number of promising players coming through," Mifsud said. "The future of the national team looks bright. My advice to the young players is to keep their feet on the ground, remain willing to learn and improve, and persevere. They must keep pushing to get better and achieve their dreams because where there is a will there is a way."

"I've been touched by the gratitude and appreciation shown by the Maltese people ahead of my final match for the national team"

Looking back on his own career and the players who left the biggest impression on him, Mifsud said:

"Miroslav Klose is the player I looked up to. I was very young when I joined FC Kaiserslautern and Klose was already a star at the time. Despite his fame and interest surrounding his career at the time, he was very humble and always remained like that. These are important values which also mean a lot to me."

"As for the strongest opponent I've faced during my international career, it has to be Zinedine Zidane. We played France in the EURO 2004 qualifiers and Zidane really stood out with his finesse, the way he shielded the ball and his footballing intelligence."

PRIDE AND HONOUR

As he looked ahead to his Malta swansong, Mifsud said every match he played for the national team filled him with pride.

"I treasure the memories of all the games I've played for the national team... every game, every second you play matters," Mifsud said.

"I've always been honoured to represent my country and proud with what I have achieved. I wish to thank everyone, especially those who helped me to achieve this. It's a very special thing."

At club level, Mifsud remains as focused and motivated as ever to help his current team, Sirens FC, reach their objectives. With regard to the national team, he indicated his willingness to serve in a different role in the future.

"To be honest, I haven't really thought about it but they say everything happens for a reason," he said.

"Football has given me a lot and I would love to share my experience and give something back to Maltese football, especially at national team level."

For the time being, future plans can be put on hold as all the focus should be on Michael Mifsud and his immense contribution to the national team. Thank you Michael! ◆

◆ 120TH ANNIVERSARY

CELEBRATING 120 YEARS OF THE MALTA FOOTBALL ASSOCIATION

The Malta Football Association is 120 years old. The officially-recognised year of birth of the Malta FA is 1900 with Major William Henry Russel Prever becoming the first president of the Association in 1909.

The 120th anniversary of the Malta FA is an occasion to cherish and revive those moments, those epic matches and unforgettable events, throughout this long and emotional journey of a footballing nation.

"This is a prestigious anniversary for the Malta FA, which is one of the oldest football associations in the world," said Malta FA President Bjorn Vassallo. "We are naturally very proud of this.

"We are commemorating this anniversary during unprecedented times owing to the COVID-19 pandemic. Nevertheless, it's important for our association to commemorate this 120-year journey of a footballing nation, with its highs and lows, and celebrate the efforts of all those who have contributed to the development of Maltese football."

Celebrations rolled off with the unveiling of the 120th anniversary logo during a special online event broadcast on the Association's Facebook page and YouTube channel.

Malta made its official international debut in a friendly match against Austria (2-3) on 24 February, 1957, at the Empire Stadium.

discussion in the first part of the programme.

The guests were Joe Cini, who was part of the Malta team that faced Austria in the country's first official international match, played on 24 February, 1957, former Malta captains Raymond Vella and Gilbert Agius, Sirens FC forward Michael Mifsud, the country's most representative player with 142 appearances to date and a record tally of 41 goals for the national team, and Dorianne Theuma who recently became the first female player to reach 100 appearances for the Maltese national team.

Cini reminisced over that historic occasion which saw the national team, under the guidance of the late Joe Griffiths, produce a bold rally with Tony Cauchi and Sammy Nicholl scoring late goals in a 3-2 defeat to Austria.

Cini, who had a brilliant career both at club and national team level, paid tribute to his talented team-mates in that 1957 match, the likes of Salvini Schembri, Lolly Borg, Tony Cauchi, who passed away recently, and Sammy Nicholl.

Another Maltese football legend, Raymond Vella, shared his memories of another famous match, the 3-2 home defeat to West Germany in 1984, saying that the enthusiasm of the capacity crowd at the National Stadium was a great source of inspiration for the Maltese side who produced a terrific performance on the day.

Gilbert Agius, who has made 119 appearances for Malta and scored eight goals, said he treasures all the successful moments of his career, especially the time between 2006 and 2008 when Malta obtained five points in the EURO 2008 qualifiers under Dusan Fitzel, and all the trophies won with his club Valletta.

Michael Mifsud singled out the goal he scored in the away 2014 World Cup qualifier against Armenia on June 7, 2013 as one of the top highlights of his international career. "That was perhaps my most memorable goal as it earned our national team a rare away victory," Mifsud said.

WOMEN'S FOOTBALL

Long-serving national team midfielder Dorianne Theuma spoke about the significant progress made by the Maltese team and women's football in general since making her international debut in a EURO qualifier against Romania in 2003.

The discussion also featured the participation of Malta FA President Bjorn Vassallo, football journalists and President Emeritus and former Malta FA President Dr George Abela.

Despite the unprecedented difficulties caused by the COVID-19 crisis, Vassallo struck an upbeat note. "The 120th year of the Malta FA will certainly be remembered for the extraordinary challenges caused by the coronavirus," he said. "I'm very confident that Maltese football will overcome the current difficulties and make an opportunity out of it."

"The Maltese people have always shown courage and resilience in times of adversity, and as a nation, we have always managed to come back stronger.

Malta celebrate their 2-1 win over Georgia in a UEFA Women's EURO qualifier, played on 5 March, 2020.

We look forward to consolidating the association's footballing mission, as well as the social aspect, which is also at the heart of our work, in the months and years to come."

To mark the 120th anniversary, the Malta FA will soon open a new Maltese football museum on Level 2 of the Millennium Stand.

Team captains of all the local clubs are wearing a commemorative armband for domestic matches and all clubs and member associations will be presented with commemorative mementos in the coming weeks.

There is also an environmental initiative associated with this anniversary as a total 120 trees are being planted in the National Stadium surroundings. ◆

MALTA U-21 WRAP UP CAMPAIGN WITH HOME MATCHES AGAINST UKRAINE AND FINLAND

The Malta Under-21 team will wrap up their UEFA Under-21 Championship Group 8 qualifying campaign with two matches, against Ukraine and Finland, at the Centenary Stadium.

Malta Under-21 coach Silvio Vella has selected a squad of 22 players for this double-header with a number of players making a welcome return after injuries and COVID-19 issues seriously hampered the Malta U-21 team's preparations for last month's qualifiers at home to Denmark and away to Romania.

Goalkeeper Timothy Aquilina, Nicholas Pulis, Jamie Zerafa, Marcus Grima and Ayrton Attard, all experienced players at this level, are back in the frame for the Malta Under-21 team's final Group 8 outings.

Goalkeeper Rashed Al-Tumi and Carlo Zammit Lonardelli, who are based in Italy, are also back in the squad while San ġwann striker Andrea Zammit, the youngest player in the squad at 17 years of age, has retained his place in the 22-strong group.

The Malta Under-21 team meet Ukraine on Friday with the match kicking off at 17.00 before rubbing shoulders with Finland in their final group match on Tuesday 17th November (15.00).

Malta have one point in Group 8 while Ukraine and Finland are level on 10 points but out of the running for a top-two finish. Denmark have already secured top spot with 25 points, six clear of Romania ahead of their direct clash on 17th November.
